

J&B Software Launches New Corporate Website at www.JBSoftware.com

Blue Bell, PA – July 14, 2008 – J&B Software, Inc., a premier provider of enterprise-wide transaction, document management and payment system solutions, today announced the launch of its new corporate website located at www.JBSoftware.com. The site features an enhanced look and feel, easy-to-use navigation, links to new industry resources and an array of new product and service offerings.

“We are extremely excited about the newly developed site and the fresh new perspective of the company that it delivers,” said Jim McShea, Executive Vice President of Sales & Marketing for J&B Software.

“People interested in payment processing, imaging, document management, document recognition or remote capture can now visit the site and review our entire suite of solutions, upcoming corporate and industry events, the latest news and more. As we continue to grow and expand our offerings, the enhanced site is a major move towards the continued promotion of the Company and its corporate message will be a great asset in providing our customers and prospects with up-to-date product, solution and industry information.”

The website also features other new additions including the products, solutions and professional services that are associated with our parent company, 3i Infotech, LTD. We have also included the availability of new industry resources and their associated links as well as sections that highlight our strategic partnerships that are established throughout the industry.
